

Provisional Postage Dues

A shortage of commonly used values (multiples of 5 centimes) prompted Indochina to overprint available stocks of French colonies general Issues postage stamps. A black "5" was printed on the 60 centimes tan in 1904. In the following year, three new values were printed on the black 40 and 60 centimes postage due stamps.

On 20 July 1905, a sender posted a picture postcard from Hon-Gay, Tonkin to a soldier or civilian serving with the 3rd Company of the 12th Colonials in Saigon. After transiting Haiphong, the card arrived in Saigon on 21 July. Apparently, somewhere along the way, a postal clerk had missed the 5-centime stamp on the reverse side and assessed the card 10 centimes postage due with a pair of postage due stamps. As a handwritten note and a handstamp attest, the card was refused. Since the addressee had declined to pay the amount due, the postage due stamps were cancelled with horizontal pen lines.

In 1905, the sender failed to add any postage to a wrapper addressed locally within Saigon. As a consequence, a postal clerk applied a large "T" with black ink. Additionally, he affixed a 5-centime postage due stamp for the minimum postage due amount.

Provisional Postage Dues Use of 30 centimes

Since the sender had failed to attach postage in the amount of 15 centimes needed for an internal letter, the Saigon post office charged the letter postage due in the amount of 30 centimes, twice the short payment. Besides the large "T" signifying "postage due," the envelope bears an example of the 30-centimes provisional postage due stamp.
